

Job Resources

Listed below are resources that should be useful for finding and preparing for job interviews. If you have questions or need individual help, please contact the library for more information.

Job Search Engines

Localized search engines

Job Center of Wisconsin

Created by the Department of Workforce Development a Wisconsin state government agency. Here you can search for jobs within Wisconsin, and also explore the economy in Wisconsin and what skills are needed. *no account required to search

Dane County Job Center

The Dane County Job Center can help you find jobs within the county. They are also connected with several other counties in Wisconsin; if you need to reach them you can find their event calendar and contact details on their website.

National search engines

A note on national search engines: Sometimes national job search engines can be overwhelming, making it hard to find what you're looking for. If you have something specific in mind (whether that is location, job field, or education/experience) try to limit those factors first. You may also find it useful to start within a state search engine and expand out from there.*

Indeed

National job search engine. *no account required to search.

LinkedIn

National job search engine, but also can serve as a networking and recruitment tool when you sign in with an account. *no account required to search.

CareerBuilder

National job search engine. *no account required to search.

ZipRecruiter

National job search engine. *no account required to search; if screen pops up asking you to enter an email click off in the gray space to exit out of pop-up.

TradedUp

National job search engine for skilled trades. *no account required to search.

Job Planning Resources
